

Helping farmers and growers with pivot irrigation system recovery

Today's pivot irrigation systems are increasingly complex. For farmers and growers who rely on them every day, Chubb offers tailored insurance solutions to protect against damages caused by weather, mechanical breakdowns and more. With specialized expertise and exceptional service, we are here to keep your clients' operations running smoothly in the moments they need us most.

Protecting a farmer's crops after pivot damage

Powerful wind gusts knocked over a farmer's pivot, severely damaging the irrigation system. A Chubb adjuster worked with a vendor to assess the damages and determined a replacement was more cost-effective than repairs. Our adjuster prioritized a timely settlement and issued full policy limit payments within 10 days of the claim being reported, helping the farmer minimize yield losses for the season.

Swift response after pivot copper theft

A farmer discovered someone stole copper wiring from three of their pivots, rendering the units inoperable. Chubb worked with the insured, their agent and local authorities to obtain the police report and verify damages. With no known suspects, subrogation was not possible. Still, the adjuster settled the claim within three weeks. The farmer remembered their adjuster from a previous claim - Chubb's specialized team often works regularly with insureds - and had trust and confidence in the quality of service.

Issuing a quick payment, even after finding additional damage

After a heavy storm, a farmer reported damage to a pivot tower. Their Chubb adjuster quickly investigated, verified coverage and determined the cause of loss.

However, an additional inspection revealed further damage to the center point. The adjuster addressed it swiftly, and Chubb paid the claim in less than two weeks of the initial report, allowing the farmer to resume operations with little disruption.

